: SECOND GENERATION

1. Stephen Ball[2] Meeker (Timothy Jr., 3)[1]. Born, 1781, in Northfield Par., Springfield Twp., Essex Co., NJ. Died, 26 Jan 1866, in New Albany, Floyd Co., IN. Census: 1820, in Butler Co., OH. Occupation: Steamboatman. Migrated to Clermont Co., OH along with Rev. Moses Edwards and a group from his congregation.

He married[1], first, Catherine Reeves[2], 13 Aug 1800, in Essex Co., NJ[3]. Born, 1780, in Essex Co., NJ. from the Parish of Northfield, in the township of Springfield and County of Essex, NJ Children:

- i. Stephen[1] Meeker[4]. Born, 1802.
- ii. Frederick Meeker[4]. Born, 1803.
- iii. Mathias Meeker[1]. Born, 31 Jul 1804, in Essex Co., NJ. Died, 27 Apr 1876, in Lovejoy Twp., Iroquois Co., IL. Census: 1850, in 45th District, Harrison Co., IN[5]. Occupation: Ships Carpenter. He married[1] Elizabeth Alstott[4], 16 Oct 1833, in New Albany, Harrison Co., IN. of Floyd, Harrison, & Vigo Co.s, IN - Clark & Iroquois Co.s IL. This family moved to Corydon, IN in 1855, Vermillion Co., Co., IN in the 1860's , and Iroquois Co., IL in 1867. Three sons and three sons-in-law served in the Union army during the Civil War.
- iv. Meeker[4]. Born, 1807.
- v. Halsey Meeker[1]. Born, 1808, in Essex Co., NJ. Died, circa 1870. Census: 1838, in Franklin co., IN. He married[1] Catherine Smith, 5 Apr 1863, in Franklin Co., IN. Halsey Meeker, possibly in his mother's household in 1830, had settled in Franklin Co., IN by 1838, the date of his first deed there, and remained there until his death sometime between 1870 and 1880. He was married late in life and it is believed that they had one daughter. He and his brother Hamilton were engaged in the lumber business in Franklin Co. many years and were involved in several deeds together from 1838 until about 1868. Descendants of Hamilton Meeker were told that Halsey was blind in his later years and was buried near the site of their old business. Attempts to locate his grave have been unsuccessful because the area is so overgrown with weeds.

vi. Henry Meeker[1]. Born, circa 1812, in Essex Co., NJ. Died, 4 Nov 1881, in New Albany, Floyd Co., IN. Burial in Floyd Co., IN[6]. Census: 1840, in Floyd Co., IN. Census: 1870, in Floyd Co., IN. Occupation: boatcaulker. He married[7] Ellen Rice[2], 20 Sep 1836, in New Albany, Floyd Co., IN.

vii. Hamilton Meeker[1]. Born, circa 1814, in Essex Co., NJ. Died, 20 Jul 1882, in Brookville, Franklin Co., IN. He married[7] Catherine (Katy) Maxwell[7], daughter of John Maxwell and Prudence Royer, 2 Jul 1834, in Butler Co., OH. Hamilton remained in Butler Co., OH with his family probably until around 1843, believed to be the time that his mother died. Family obituaries reported that the family lived in a one-room cabin at first and had to build fires to scare the wolves away. His wife cooked beside an old stump. After removeing to Franklin Co., IN c1843, he engaged in the lumber business with his brother Halsey for many years, shipping logs down the Ohio River. Apparently successful in business, they suffered some losses in the later 1800's. He was also in the liquor business and had a wheat farm near Brookville. It is not known if some land in Franklin Co. that Hamilton sold to his brother Halsey in 1838 came from Maxwell family or from a Meeker grant.

viii. Calvin Meeker[1].

THIRD GENERATION

3. Timothy^[3] Meeker Jr. ("Old" Timothy, 5)^[11]. Born, Mar 1752, in Northfield, Livingston Twp., Essex Co., NJ. Died, 24 Apr 1834^[12]. RWS, Sgt, N.J., Served as an orderly sergeant under his brother, Joseph's company in Col. Spencer's Regiment. Timothy stated in his pension application that "he and his father and ten brothers served throughout the war of the Revolution." Was in the battles of Ash Swamp, Short Hills, Springfield, & Connecticut Farms. An old story, traced back to the Burnet Collection of the New Jersey Historical Society, was published in the "Short Hills Item" about 1896 as follows:

"In the summer of 1780, a few days after the Battle of Springfield, Timothy Meeker was at work putting up the fences on his farm, for his meadows had been filled with cattle, sheep and hogs that had been driven up the Valley road, past the "Old Forge" where later stood Samuel Campbell's paper mill, out of the way of the British. "Five or six gentlemen rode up on horseback and saluting the farmer courteously, asked him if he were a friend to the American cause, Meeker replied, with much emphasis that he was and that he despised any man who was unfriendly to it. He was asked if there were any Tories in that neighborhood, and he assured the strangers that no Tory dared show his face there. One of the party then asked if there was a man named Timothy Meeker living near there, and upon Mr. Meeker's replying that that was his name, as well as his father's, he was informed that they had heard that Timothy Meeker with his nine sons and four sons-in-law had fought in the Battle of Springfield. "Mr. Meeker testified to the truth of this, and that he was one of the nine sons referred to. During the conversation that followed, inquiry was made as to whether the people were displeased because Washington had not come into the action with his troops? his Army being but a few miles away. Mr, Meeker replied, "No, Washington was right, he can take his Army where he pleases, and he was right to let the Militia fight 'em, for we can lick 'em. Let the Redcoats come on - we can lick 'em".

"By this time the dinner horn blew, and Mr. Meeker invited the strangers to dine with him. The invitation was readily accepted and they rode up to the house, slipped the bridles off their horses and turned them into a meadow to graze during the dinner hour. Upon entering the house Mrs. Meeker reproached her husband for not having sent one of the children to tell her that visitors were coming, so that she might have made other preparations for dinner. But her husband replied that if they were friends of the Cause and friends of Washington they would be satisfied, and one of the gentlemen remarked that he thought Washington would be glad to sit down to such a dinner, for no doubt he had many times fared much worse.

"When after dinner and much pleasant conversation, the visit came to an end, the horses were bridled and the gentlemen mounted. One of them, after speaking a few words in low tones to the others, turned to Mr. Meeker and said, "Friend Meeker, you have treated us with such kind hospitality and have opened your mind to us so freely, that it would seem ungrateful in me not to tell you who I am. I am George Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the American Army, and these gentlemen are my staff officers". Mr. Meeker was so much surprised as to be speechless for a moment, but quickly recovering himself, he said, "General, I don't know but I have been spilling wheat, but you must charge it to my ignorance that I have been talking with so much vanity." To which Washington replied, "I know that you have spoken only the sentiments of your heart.""

A silver cup that Washington gave to Timothy Meeker on this occasion is now in the Historical Room of the Springfield Public Library. It has been named the "Washington Cup" and is made of heavy copper, silver plated outside and gold plated inside. It is one of several cups made for Washington by a Jeweler in Philadelphia. It was a gift to the Library by Claudius Batar whose great grand father, George Cook, bought Meeker's farm and was given the cup at that time.

FOURTH GENERATION

5. "Old" Timothy[4] Meeker (Thomas, 8)[19]. Born, 1708, in Elizabeth, Essex Co., NJ. Died, 22 Dec 1798, in Northfield, Essex Co., NJ[20]. Burial in Northfield, Essex Co., NJ[21]. Service Rec: 1776, in RWS, Springfield, NJ. RWS, MM, N.J., Timothy served in the Revolution at the Battle of Springfield on 23 Jun 1780 at age 70 with 9 of his sons, 4 sons-in-law, and two grandsons. At that time, the Springfield area had seen the British soldiers several times. Old Timothy's participation in the militia was recorded in the New York "Gazette and Weekly Mercury" on 29 Jul 1776.

He married, first, Sarah Pierson[22], daughter of Joseph Pierson and Hepzibah Camp, 1736. Born, circa 1719. Died, 21 Jan 1737/8. Death(2): 10 Jan 1736/7[23]. Burial in Essex Co., NJ[24]. Sarah (Pierson) Meeker's tombstone states that she was age 18. It shows the following quote. "Here lyes a blooming youth. She lives in love and died in truth." Children:

i. Capt. Joseph[3] Meeker[4]. Born, 1736, in Springfield, Elizabeth Bor., Union Co., NJ. Died, Sep 1799, in Mendham, Morris Co., NJ.

Census: 1779, in Newark Twp., Essex Co., NJ[25]. Occupation: Farmer. He married[17] Mary/Molly Smith (Harrison?)[4], daughter of Isaac Smith, 1816 (??) in NJ. Joseph was captain of a company of rangers on scout the whole time of the Battle of Springfield watching the movements of the British and Tories.

ii. Sarah Meeker[26]. Born, 21 Jan 1737/8, in Springfield, Essex Co., NJ. Died, 1 Jan 1792, in Springfield, Essex Co., NJ. Burial in Essex Co., NJ[27]. She married Isaac Smith Jr.[26], son of Isaac Smith. He married, second, Hannah Munn[4], daughter of John Munn, circa 1738. Aunt of Judge Aaron Munn born 1765. Children:

iii. Jonas Meeker[26]. Born, circa 1740, in Essex Co., NJ. Died, circa 1763, in Essex Co., NJ. He married Sarah Osborne[28]. MAY HAVE BEEN SON OF SARAH PIERSON. Further research by LeRoy Meeker indicates that an explanation of the deed to Jomas Meeker found in the old stone house may be explained by the fact that Miss Munn was the mother of Jonas Meeker. She was a daughter of John Munn and a sister of Benjamin Munn (1730-1818). This made Jonas the nephew of Benjamin Munn. If Benjamin and his wife, Jemima (Pierson) Munn (1734-1819), cared for Jemima's mother, Hepzibah Camp Pierson (1696-1769) after her husband Joseph Pierson's death (1693-1759), deeding her old stone house to Jonas would be keeping it in the family. Jonas would have been about twenty-three at the time of the deed (1763). Since Joseph and Hepzibah (Camp) Pierson were also the parents of Timothy Meeker's first wife, Sarah (Pierson) Meeker, they were grandparents to Jonas's half-brother and sister, Joseph and Sarah Meeker.

iv. John Meeker[19]. Born, circa 1742, in Essex Co., NJ. Died, 14 Nov 1802, in Springfield Twp., Essex Co., NJ. Will Made: 22 Nov 1802, in Essex Co., NJ[29]. Fairfield Co., CT[53]. Prob of Est: 10 Mar 1683/4, in Fairfield, Fairfield Co., CT. Occupation: Farmer. He married[59] Susanna "Susan" Tuberville[59], 16 Sep 1651, in New Haven, New Haven Co., CT[60]. Sailed from Plymouth, England in and arrived in Massachusetts in 1630. Removed to Quinnipiack (New Haven), Conn. before by the first of July, 1654; removed to Fairfield by 1668. PROGENITOR OF THE REDDING, CONN., BRANCH OF THE FAMILY. The brother of William, Robert (d. 1683/50, had married Susan Tuberville on September 16, 1654 and by 1668 was living near Fairfield, Connecticut, where he had or was to acquire a rather large estate of three hundred and eighty-eight acres besides interest in the "Common Lands". In his will made November 12, 1683, proved March 10, 1684/5, he named a daughter, Mary, and two sons, Daniel and John. Robert Meeker land extended from Sasco Beach on Long Island Sound to the northern boundry of the town of Fairfield. The land was a mile wide and presently called the "Gold Coast" of the east. It is thought that Robert & family after leaving the New Haven Colony went to Elizabethtown for a short time & then to NY & on to the Coast before settling in Fairfield Colony of CT. At that time New Haven Colony & CT Colony had separate charters from the King of England Extracted from "History of the Colony of New Haven" by Edward E. Atwater Early in the spring of 1644 the new proprietors took possession of their purchase. It is probable that they came from Wethersfield in vessels down the Connecticut river and through Long Island sound. They were joined by others from New Haven and all numbered forty men, many of whom were accompanied by wives and children. Prominent among them were William Swaine and his sons Samuel and Daniel, John Plum, Richard Harrison, Thomas Blatchly, Robert Rose, John and Francis Linsley, William Palmer, Thomas Sargent, Robert Abbott, Edward Treadwell, Samuel Nettleton, John Norton, John Hill, John Ward, Daniel Dod, Thomas Richards, Jonathan England, Edward Frisbie, Richard Lawrence, Richard Mather, Sagismond Richalls, William Merchang, Luther Branfield, Thomas Fenner, John Edwards, Robert Meeker, Thomas Whitehead, Richard Lawrence, with Rev. John Sherman, who accompanied them as their pastor, Jasper Crane, George and Lawrence Ward, Thomas Morris, and Thomas Lupton came from New Haven to Branford.

Their first homes were along the north and west banks of the river, leaving the Indian reservation, which still retains the name of Indian Neck, on the opposite side.

These houses were probably of crude construction as the first meeting house, built in 1644, was a block house with a thatched roof, surrounded by a palisade of cedar logs twelve feet high. In 1645 the first division of lands was made, each proprietor having previously received a home lot and three acres of land.

Robert Meeker took the Oath of Fidelity in New Haven, July 1644, and then removed to Branford, where he appeared to be a person of some standing. He married Susan Tuberfield 1651. He removed to Fairfield before 1670.
